Bringing the best out of practicality

While working from home is becoming more common, practicality in the bathroom is essential, especially in a household with children aged 4 to 8. I designed a space that is both practical and flexible, providing the family with the luxury of having a space to relax when they need it while still having the practicality of a fully functional bathroom for their daily needs.

Design Visuals: Full Bathroom

Bathroom design with a modern feel and a hint of wood tones

Design Visuals: Shower Area

The shower area includes a bathtub, allowing for a space that can accommodate either need.

The concealed shower mixer, combined with the sleek bathtub from the Acacia Evolution collection, creates a clean appearance.

The use of a towel bar as a handle for the shower area's doors allows the user to hang their towel directly outside the shower area, keeping it dry.

Design Visuals: Toilet Area

Additional storage is provided by built-in wall shelves above the one-piece toilet.

Robe Hooks from the Acacia evolution collection are stacked for a more flexible use or the entire family.

Design Visuals: Basin Area

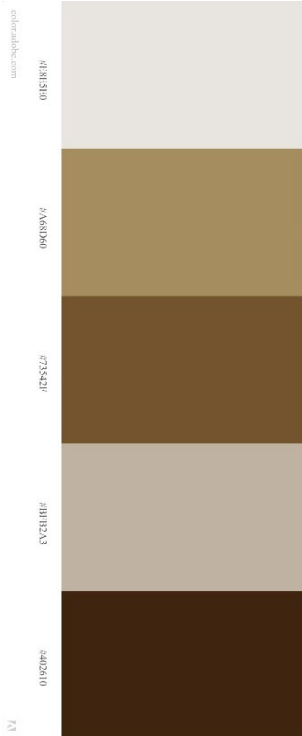

Large mirrors are placed to create an illusion of a bigger bathroom. It is also placed slightly higher to avoid water stains.

An Acacia Evolution Towel Ring is placed by the sink for easy access. I have chosen the High Spout Basin Mixer so that it could be easily reached by younger children since the handle is by the side of the faucet.
