“RETURN TO NATURE”

“The trend of ecotourism to experience - Interaction with nature and the environment - Return to nature”

Nature has an undeniably wonderful healing ability, whenever people live in harmony with the ecological environment, the human body will then produce a lot of positive energy which has a profound impact on both physical and mental health. When people are more associated with nature, they can find their mind being calmer and more peaceful thanks to the close connection with nature.

The benefits nature brings to human health can make people appreciate the value of protecting the surrounding living environment more, respecting the natural ecosystem and preserving the clean air, which can then widely spread this awareness to the community.
